

SATA News
January 2008

Happy New Years everyone! It is January 2nd, 2009 and the weather has not yet removed its grip on us of freezing cold temperatures and snow. I love winter, how about you? This is the first newsletter of 2009 and the first with the new format.

At this time there is not much to report from the SATA. I participated in a conference call with the other regional presidents at the beginning of December. From that meeting it reminds me of how much work we need to do in Saskatchewan to increase recognition of Athletic Therapy in the province. In order to keep up with the rest of the country I am urging the SATA membership to include in their new year's resolutions to find ways to help us become a recognized profession in our province.

In the upcoming months we will host our annual AGM via conference call. Please look for an email from me with possible dates and times. I would also like to remind the membership that the next Sport Med Saturday will be held in March in Regina.

Sincerely,

Kari Hiebert, CAT(C), RN
SATA President
